

A physically reconstructible target creates proxy leakage

If the class label is derived from active power, V and I can nearly reconstruct it.

A simple classifier can therefore score highly without learning temporal demand dynamics.